Success is the ultimate desire in everyone's life. However to achieve success in life one needs to showcase their will towards their goal or dreams. On the other hand, one who shows laziness and has low will power never achieves success. One should have the courage to follow their dreams. The hard times and hurdles are the part of life and one should not give up with these hardships. Rather one should face these hardships and take it as a motivation to win. Everyone consists of a winner inside them. Therefore, it is rightly said that "The starting point of all achievement is desire." We should make ourselves to believe that when there is nothing we should not lose hope and firmly believe that there is something good for us. We should be optimistic in order to keep our wills strong.

The will to win - magical words that can transform anyone at any part of his/her life. This will will make a person set his/her goals and ways to chase the goal. It will build determination and mental strength to win the goal. According to the football coach, Vince Lombardi, winning should be a habit and not a once in a while event. So we have to inculcate the will to develop the habit of winning everything in our life without a second chance. Along with a will, the preparedness and the hard work we do over time to win counts our success.
